Dear Lee:

Now do you like the new writing paper? It's Cardy and I just borrowed it from her. I'm now in the chapel and we're getting ready to go to, but you know how plays are, we'll probably have to wait an hour or so, so I think I'll be safe in writing you. This week is supposed to be hot weeks, but most of the teachers are busy now and aren't giving us any because of the program.

I got your money safely last week. I'll try to get something for everyone you mentioned. So don't you worry about it. I've got all of my own clipping done and the stories are packed up here all the time. There is quite a bit epidemic of colds, too. Now and you know I had one last week, well now about half of the dorm is in bed with them.

It's now Wednesday night. I didn't get much done last night before I was interrupted. These last few days have been very cold. The air is so very clear, but so sharp it almost hurts to talk.
a breath. They flooded over the tennis courts and it was solid. Some of the athletes were skating on it tonight, but most of our athletes are at home. We're all going to buy them back at Christmas time. I think the athletes want to play ice-hockey on it.

Last night about 11:30 we had a blackout. It's only the second we've had since we've been here. We had one on the first night I was here and that was on September 25th. The moon was out so brightly that we sat by the window and ate during the blackout. I don't know whether or not they had one in Delaware too, or whether it was just their state.

Today and I are now home in the kitchen making a cup of tea. Their letter of yours is certainly getting around isn't it? This time next week I'll be home everyone is saying. I guess you better address all my letters to home now because I don't think I'll get them before I left here. I think I'll try to write you a letter on the way home and tell you what is going on. Well, I'm being escorted up to bed. I'll write and tell you all about the play. With all my love —
