

Thursday 26th
[July 26, 1944]

Dear Lee,

Here I am again at A. W. U. S., just about the only place I get to write my letters, anymore.

Boy, have we been busy with Brandymirers this week. We took it to the Drama League and everyone is beginning to get scared.
We've been working from 9:45 up til 11:30 or 11:45 every night and were all dead. It's worth it though, as the show is beginning to shape up nicely at last. Of course there are still a few rough spots but were gradually ironing them out.

This morning I decided to move the puppys (out of doors) in the shade as the garage is stilling in the weather. I moved them out and John cleaned their box out good while another boy and I moved Ginger's house. Little did we suspect that there were hornets under the roof as we bravely lugged it across the yard. But there were and suddenly they swarmed out. We ran and they nuzzled me but they stung Edward. Before we touched the house again we thoroughly squirted it with the hose.

"The Hairy Ape" was here last week and Walter and I went to see it. It was good but very short. "Once Upon A Time" is here this week and I can't wait to see it as it's supposed to have a dancing worm in it. Really!

It really has been hot here this week. We've had temperatures up in the nineties every day and everyone walks around with that wilted look.

Well, better get on the job.

Lots of Love,

Bernice